

The Language Of Landscape

The crowd opens with Aunt Polly crossing the fence in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom runs out dramatically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects carefully on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with his work.

Tom crosses fence at supper time. During supper, Aunt Polly discovers that Tom's hands are covered with jam. She asks him how he got the jam on his hands, and he tells her that he was out of the house. She is still angry from her first, Tom's half brother, that himself to discipline his Tom goes out of the house to play the streets of St. Petersburg. Tom and the new arrival eventually chooses the wilderness all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and decides to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of excuse. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his labor.

This eloquent and powerful book combines poetry and pragmatism to teach the language of landscape. Anne Whiston Spirn, author of the award-winning The Granite Garden: Urban Nature and Human Design, argues that the language of landscape exists with its own syntax, grammar, and metaphors, and that we imperil ourselves by failing to learn to read and speak this language.

The Language of Landscape by Anne Whiston Spirn

The Language of Landscape. There is danger when we lose the connection between a place and our understanding of it, Spirn warns, and she calls for change in the way we shape our environment, based on the notions of nature as a set of ideas and landscape as the expression of action and ideas in place.

Rhythms emerge out of a contextual background; they go with or against, in counterpoint. In landscape, the rhythm of movement is most visible when documented on film or video then viewed at a faster speed than normal. In Disneyland, the stroll is the rhythm; in basketball the dribble, the run, and the jump.

LANGUAGE OF - Anne Whiston Spirn

The Language of Landscape. To understand the meanings of landscape, our habitat, is to see the world differently and to enable ourselves to avoid profound aesthetic and environmental mistakes. Offering examples that range across thousands of years and five continents, Spirn examines urban, rural, and natural landscapes.
